

Her Old Rosary

The once-faceted beads, worn smooth, tangle in gnarled hands. Worries, or prayers, depending on the day, thread through arthritic fingers that count Hail Marys instead of sheep, hoping for sleep, certain this vigilance has some part in keeping the world properly spinning.

By Martha K. Grant

Artwork by Rosemary Esquivel
HFA: Alameda School for Art + Design

National Poetry Month in San Antonio is made possible with funding from the City of San Antonio Department of Arts & Culture.