

The Reach of Trees

Twenty two thousand trees planted along the Mission Reach

Thirty five of them are mine

Moving like a wave of locusts down the narrow strip of land

We planted, mulched and watered

In sixty years, a hardwood forest

A home for displaced birds and a playground

For the grandchild of my grandchild

By Karen K. Davidson

Artwork by Harvey Bailey

North East School of the Arts

National Poetry Month in San Antonio is made possible with funding from the City of San Antonio Department of Arts & Culture.