Yes, you can get compensation for cancelled flights on JetBlue under certain conditions. If JetBlue cancels your flight due to reasons within their control (like mechanical issues or staffing), they will:

- Rebook you on the next available JetBlue flight at no extra cost or offer a refund if you prefer.

- If the cancellation causes you to wait 3 hours or more, they provide meal vouchers worth $12.
- If you need to stay overnight because of the cancellation, they provide reasonable hotel accommodations and ground transportation.
- Compensation in the form of travel vouchers is given based on the length of delay or cancellation notification time, with a minimum $50 voucher for delays over 1 hour and up to full fare credit for long delays or cancellations close to departure.
